

People on the move

The Mack Molding Company has added new staff to its senior management team.

Colety

Marc Colety, who previously worked as plant manager at Mack's Cavendish operation, has taken over purchasing due to the retirement of longtime employee Bruce Bixler. Colety has worked for Mack for 15 years in a variety of managerial roles. He has served as a director on the board of the Springfield Regional Development Corporation.

Birmingham

Gene Birmingham has been appointed plant manager of the Cavendish facility. He previously was manufacturing manager and is a member of the Society of Plastic Engineers. He earned a bachelor's degree in packaging from Michigan State University.

Campbell

Bryan Campbell has been promoted to plant manager for the headquarters facility. Campbell joined Mack's sales department in 2008. He previously was operations manager for Guardian

Bickford

Automotive in Warren, MI. He earned a bachelor's degree in business administration from

Catawba College in Salisbury, NC.

Carl Bickford is now quality manager of contract manufacturing, which is a new position. Bickford, a 20-year company veteran, previously worked in quality management. A graduate of Vermont Technical College, Bickford holds a degree in electrical and electronic engineering.

Founded in 1920, Mack Molding is a custom plastics molder and contract manufacturer. Headquartered in Arlington, VT, it specializes in plastics design, prototyping, molding, sheet-metal fabrication and medical device manufacturing.

The Weston Playhouse Theatre Company has elected four new members to its 2010 board of directors.

The new directors are photographer/filmmaker Arthur Klonsky; actor Marcus Neville; Leigh H. "Perk" Perkins, Jr., chief executive officer of Orvis; and arts consultant Elizabeth Dunn Ruffa.

The Weston Playhouse Theatre Company, Vermont's oldest professional theater group, is a nonprofit organization supported in part by funds from the Vermont Arts Council, the National Endowment for the Arts and individuals, corporations and foundations.

Tom Lenz has been appointed general manager of the retail showroom for Ptarmigan Outfitters, LLC in Manchester Village.

Lenz recently was manager at Hickey Freeman in Manchester Center. He also has served as general manager of the Orvis flagship store in Manchester.

Ptarmigan sells rifles, shotguns and muzzleloaders as well as a full line of Filson clothing.

Jim Merriam is the new director of Efficiency Vermont, the state's nationally acclaimed statewide energy-efficiency utility operated by the nonprofit Vermont Energy Investment Corporation (VEIC).

He will be responsible for executive management, leadership and oversight of Efficiency Vermont service delivery, strategic planning, marketing, policy, regulatory and public affairs activities. He will have primary responsibility for ensuring the group's energy-savings goals and objectives on behalf of Vermont's ratepayers are met.

Merriam previously worked at groSolar in White River Junction, VT, where he had been chief operating office since 2007. Prior to that, he was vice president of operations at Northern Power Systems for 15 years.

He earned a Bachelor of Science degree in Electrical Engineering from the University of Vermont and a master's degree in engineering management from Drexel University. He is a member of the board of directors of Renewable Energy Vermont as well as a member of numerous environmental organizations.

Efficiency Vermont was created in 1999 by the Vermont Legislature and the Vermont Public Service Board to help Vermonters reduce energy costs, strengthen the economy and protect Vermont's environment. VEIC provides energy planning, design, implementation and evaluation services to clients.